Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-5 and 7-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Daniel, et al.-5814064.

Daniel discloses a guidewire as shown in fig. 18 having a shaft 254, a core wire 256 and a protection element 262. Distal movement of the core wire moves the protection element from an expanded configuration to a reduced configuration. The examiner contends that the curvature created by further distal movement of the core wire would be inherent in the device. Tensile forces would be exerted and would cause a bending or curving of the most flexible element of the linear device. The protection element is a filter or occluder. The proximal end of the protection element is attached about the shaft and the distal end is attached about the core wire. The distal portion of the protection element can be made more rigid by making the braid tighter or attaching a material to it.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 6 and 16-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Daniel in view of Douk, et al.-6706055.

Daniel discloses the invention as claimed with the exception of the rotatable coupling of the protection element ends to the core wire and the shaft, the liner and the transition sleeve. . However, Douk discloses that each of these elements was known prior at applicant's invention. It would have been obvious to have provided the guidewire of Daniel with these features as it would prevent torque applied to the guidewire shaft from being translated to the protection element; it would provide a lubricious liner around the core wire to slide easier inside the shaft and to alter the torque transmitting characteristics of the guidewire; and would assist in the rotatable coupling of the protection element to the shaft and core wire of the guidewire.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-6 and 8-18 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims of U.S. Patent No. 6706055.

Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the patent claims claim the same invention with the exception of the curvature. However, as noted above, the examiner believes such a feature is inherent in the rest of what is claimed in the patent and therefore adding this limitation or function to the claimed device would be inherent.
